historical facts

Rivne is a great city, one of the largest cities in Western Ukraine, with over 700 years of history. Volodymyr Vasyliovych, the prince of Volhynia and the nephew of the well-known Daniel of Galicia (Danylo Halytsky) built Rivne on the eastern borders of his principality. From 1200 to 1340, the territory of the city belonged to the Kingdom of Galicia–Volhynia. After the partition of this kingdom in 1340, the territory of the present city belonged to the Grand Duchy of Lithuania. Since 1350s Rivne it was under the rule of Great Duchy of Lithuania.

Since 1461, the city belonged to Prince Semen Nesvizh (Semen Vasyliovych Nesvitskyi), the representative of the Rus'ian and Lithuanian dynasty Gediminovich. Since 1479, the city was passed to his wife Maria who became known as the Princess of Rivne. From 1518 to 1621 the city belonged to the Princes of Ostrog.

During World War I, it was a frontline city for a long time. From September 1920 the city was a district centre of Polish Volhynian Voivodeship. In December 1939, Rivne became the centre of the newly established Rivne Oblast, within the Ukrainian SSR.

In the 1960s and 1980s, the city faced the period of intensive growth and development. It was a dramatic change of the overall look of Rivne: there appeared new residential areas in the city centre, new neighbourhoods and new powerful companies. The population of Rivne also grew significantly.

In the late 1980s, when the top management of the Soviet Union introduced new domestic policy within the framework of so-called «Perestroika» and truly relaxed some of the existing restrictions, Rivne finally faced the revival of the national liberation movement. At this time Rivne inhabitants created the first branches of the Taras Shevchenko Ukrainian Language Society and the People's Movement of Ukraine.

On June 16, 1990, when for the first time in years the public of Ukraine in general and Rivne Oblast (region) in particular openly and solemnly celebrated the anniversary of the Battle of Berestechko, the yellow-and-blue flag was flown over an official governmental building of the City Council. The opening of the City Council sessions started with the state anthem «Shche ne vmerla Ukraina», a long before its music was officially adopted.

On May 22, 1999, the Taras Shevchenko Monument was unveiled on Maidan Nezalezhnosti (Independence Square). The square and monument to Maria Nesvytska, the local Princess and the founder of the city of Rivne became the real gem and the recreation spot for both Rivne residents and the city guests.

Rivne is the administrative, economic and cultural centre of Rivne Oblast (region). It is an excellent strategically located city with a great business climate, all required infrastructure for successful business, and a decent quality of life. The city also enjoys rich and diverse cultural life as it partners with art events, festivals and concerts all-year round.

The first recorded mention of Kvasyliv dates back to 1445. Throughout its history, from the moment when the town was established, Kvasyliv has been the centre of both political and public life in Volhynia. Josef Perny was the main initiator of the founding of Kvasyliv.

In 1873, Czech brewer Josef Zeman moved with his family to Kvasyliv and began the construction of the local brewery. The brewery provided beer to Rivne, Kvasyliv and nearby villages. They produced only draught beer (also called spelt draft). After the war, the enterprise was reconstructed and its capacity increased fivefold. In 1885, the community built a new Orthodox church, which later became a cathedral. Kvasyliv acquired the status of an urban-type settlement in 1978.
